About the Middlesex County Mosquito Extermination Commission:

The MCMEC is an autonomous agency within Middlesex County government. The Commission was created in 1914 in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey, which mandates provision for mosquito control in every county in the state. The Commission's primary purpose is to protect the residents of Middlesex County from mosquito-borne diseases (such as West Nile Virus) and nuisance mosquitoes by using a comprehensive Integrated Mosquito Management program that includes public education, mosquito surveillance, water management, biological control and chemical control.
